FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

PRLog (Press Release) - Sep 19, 2011 -

Brazilian jazz and flamenco guitarist Eric Miller recently added digital downloads to his website, EricMiller-WorldMusic.com, which launched four years ago. The MP3s include every song from three of his CDs, and samples are available on the site.

The MP3 additions expand the online availability of Eric's music. "Digital music has become mainstream," Eric said, "and I was getting a lot of questions about where fans could download MP3s of my new songs. My fans are terrific, and I like to give them what they want, so we added MP3s to the site." In addition to showcasing Eric's music, the website offers information about upcoming performances and provides contact information for visitors who wish to book live performances.

Eric's music runs the gamut from flamenco to Brazilian jazz to world music, often blending the three into a unique style. The website gives visitors an opportunity to sample various expressions of the three genres, after which they can purchase CD's, individual MP3s, or MP3 collections online.

Eric Miller has been a professional guitarist since he was 16. He became enthralled with flamenco music when he visited Spain in the mid-1990s. He has performed with Carlos Montoya, Juan Serrano, and renowned flamenco dancer La Dama Maria del Carmen. Eric is also a songwriter, and he has toured and collaborated with Nashville songwriter Karren Pell.
