Publishedin Provides Online Marketing without Advertising

New Program Boosts Internet Sales, Traffic, and SEO Efforts without Writing a Single Ad

Results. Not Advertising.

Publishedin today announced the launch of a program that will revolutionize the way businesses promote their products online. The patent-pending marketing solution makes traditional advertising obsolete and works for any type of business. The company invites all website owners to join their beta program and learn how Publishedin can grow website traffic and sales while improving search engine ranking, all without the use of ads.

“We believe that the world would be better off without ads,” said CEO and founder Yossi Barazani. “We have created a new and better way for web publishers to monetize their content without ads and for businesses to drive quality traffic for life and improve SEO rankings without writing a single ad. By decreasing the amount of ineffective ads on the internet, we improve users’ experience and allow readers to continue to get quality content for free. In contrast to advertising, Publishedin is about people, not algorithms.”

Publishedin offers benefits for both businesses and publishers through its Reward-Per-Click program, which operates like Google AdWords without the ads. Businesses gain qualified traffic, the opportunity for increased sales, an SEO boost, and improved search engine ranking.

Publishers are rewarded every time readers click a link in their editorial content and visit the website of a participating business. With no minimum traffic requirement, the Publishedin program is suitable for bloggers, site owners, and content publishers. A referral program is also available.
